

that time, Officer Rosenstock purchased two (2) Bonanza Bingo tickets, which were sold at the bar of the Legion. The bartender told Officer Rosenstock how these tickets operated. It was explained to Officer Rosenstock that "There's a master sheet which was sitting at the bar. You compare your tickets compared (sic) to the master sheet, your numbers, and you win the corresponding . . . prizes."<sup>2</sup> After playing these tickets and determining that he had not won, Officer Rosenstock left the premises.

On August 26, 2013, Officer Rosenstock again arrived at the licensed premises, waited until it opened, and went in. This time the Officer was not acting in an undercover capacity, but was there to conduct a routine inspection. During the course of this inspection, the Officer learned that the Legion's Small Games of Chance License had expired. The Small Games License on the wall of the licensed premises denoted an expiration date of April 4, 2013 and the Bingo License had an expiration date of August 20, 2013. Officer Rosenstock also testified that paperwork he had recovered from the Legion showed that despite the expiration of the Small Games of Change License, the Legion had operated small games of chance on various dates from April 5, 2013 through the date of his inspection. Also, Rosenstock testified that the Legion operated a type of "Bingo" not permitted under the license in effect on April 28, 2013.<sup>3,4</sup>

Upon the completion of his investigation, Officer Rosenstock issued a multi-count citation, #13-2097, to the Legion. Count 1 of the citation was issued claiming that the Legion violated two sections of the Local Option Small Games of Chance Act and one section of the Department of Revenue Regulations. Count 2 claimed that the Legion violated a section of the Liquor Code as well as two sections of the Bingo Law.

Specifically, as to Count 1, the Bureau claimed that: "During the period of April 5, 2013 through August 17, 2013, you [the Legion], by your servants, agents, or employees, failed to operate small games of chance in conforming with the Small Games of Chance Act<sup>5</sup> and Title 61 of the Pennsylvania Code."<sup>6</sup> Count 2 specifically alleges that "During the periods of April 28 and August 21, through August 26, 2013, you [the Legion], by your servants, agents, or employees, failed to operate Bingo in conformity with Title 10 of the Bingo Law" which in turn also violated the Liquor Code.

A hearing was held before Administrative Law Judge Felix

<sup>4</sup> It should be noted that the issue sub judice is not whether on April 28, 2013 the Legion was operating "Bingo" without a valid license, as they in fact had one until it expired on August 20, 2013. The allegation is, as set forth in the Appeal, that the "Bingo Bonanza" was not a bingo as that term was defined and therefore, the Legion did not operate "bingo" in conformity with the license involving the tickets purchased by Officer Rosenstock.

Thau. Officer Rosenstock testified to the facts outlined above and Keith McQuait (hereinafter "McQuait"), President of the Legion, also testified. McQuait testified as to how the game they call Bingo Bonanza or Bar Bingo is played. In this type of game, played on Tuesdays and Sundays, twenty-four (24) numbers are randomly drawn in public from a deck of bingo cards, 5 "B's", 5 "I's", 4 "N's", 5 "G's", and 5 "O's". These numbers represent the numbers that are then placed on a "master" card located at the end of the bar. As patrons purchase sealed cards, they then open them to reveal their numbers, compare them to the numbers on the master board, and mark the matching numbers accordingly. Depending upon how those numbers match up, they may or may not have "Bingo." Various combinations result in that patron winning a monetary prize.

On July 11, 2014, Administrative Law Judge Thau issued an adjudication in which he dismissed the citation in its entirety. Initially, Administrative Law Judge Thau dismissed both counts of the citation by concluding that the wording of each count "offends due process/notice." Additionally, Administrative Law Judge Thau found that the citation as to Count 1 violated the notice requirements of 47 P.S. §4-471. Alternatively, Administrative Law Judge Thau concluded that Count 2 should be dismissed on the basis that the Bureau failed to prove that the Legion failed to operate Bingo in conformity with the Bingo Law.

From this adjudication, the Bureau filed a timely Appeal to the Board. The Bureau determined that the Administrative Law Judge erred as a matter of law by dismissing the citation in its entirety on the basis of a violation of the Legion's due process and notice rights related thereto simply because the Administrative Law Judge raised these issues sua sponte. The Board also addressed these issues of whether or not the "Bingo" game offered by the Legion fell within the definition of §303 of the Bingo Law. The Board concluded that it did fall under the definition and affirmed the Administrative Law Judge's determination relative to the Legion offering a game of bingo in conformity with the statute.

However, that did not end the inquiry as the Board made a determination that while this Bonanza Bingo Game was offered by the Legion and played by its patrons in conformity with the act on the date of April 28, 2013, it [the Legion] violated the Bingo Law by offering this game after August 20, 2013, the date the Bingo License expired. The Board also reversed the Administrative Law Judge's decision as to Count 1, finding that the Legion violated the Small Games of Chance Act by offering such games from April 5, 2013 through August 17, 2013, the period during which their license was expired.<sup>7</sup> Accordingly, the Board remanded this matter back to the Administrative Law Judge for an adjudication consistent with the Board's November 19, 2014 decision.<sup>8</sup>

<sup>7</sup> The Administrative Law Judge never addressed the merits of Count 1 of the citation as he had dismissed to in the due process/notice grounds referred to earlier in this opinion.

On December 4, 2014, the Bureau filed a request of the Board to reconsider its decision of November 19, 2014 insofar as the Bureau requested the Board to conclude that the citations did in fact, satisfy due process and that the Bonanza Bingo Game was not a bingo game that fell under the definition set forth in §303 of the Bingo Law. The Board rejected reconsideration.

On December 18, 2014, the Bureau filed a timely Appeal to this Court. On June 18, 2015, this Court conducted a hearing, at which time the Bureau relied upon Bureau Exhibit 1 in support of its Appeal<sup>9</sup>. McQuait testified on behalf of the Legion. This Appeal appears limited to two issues: 1) Whether citation 13-2597 as issued by the Bureau to the Legion satisfied due process; and 2) Whether the Bonanza Bingo Game offered by the Legion and played by its patrons is the type of bingo game falling within the definition of §303 of the Bingo Law. After giving both sides an opportunity to brief<sup>10</sup> these issues, they are now ripe for disposition.

<sup>8</sup> It appears from the record that the Board was remanding this case back to the Administrative Law Judge for him to make a determination as to whether the Legion was guilty of violating count 1 insofar as operating small games of chance at a time it did not have a valid license to do so (period from April 5, 2013 - August 17, 2013) as well as a determination of whether the Legion was guilty of violating the Bingo Law as alleged in Count 2 of the citation regarding operation of a bingo game at a time when that license had expired (period from August 20, 2013 - August 26, 2013).

<sup>9</sup> Bureau Exhibit 1 consisted of a variety of documents including, inter alia, the notes of testimony before the Administrative Law Judge, the opinion of the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board, the citations issued to the Legion, and related documents.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

When an appeal is taken from the Board's decision, the trial court hears the matter de novo and must make its own findings of fact and conclusions of law. Two Sophia's Inc. v. Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board, 799 A.2d 917, 919 (Pa. Commw. Ct. 2002). Those findings and conclusions must be based upon the record of the proceedings below, if offered and introduced by the Board, together with any other evidence properly submitted at the de novo hearing. Id at 921. "A trial court is not permitted to substitute its findings of fact for those of the Board, when the evidence before the two tribunals is substantially the same." PLCB v. Can, Inc., 664 A.2d 695, 698 (Pa. Commw. Ct. 1995) citing Beach Lake United Methodist Church v. Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board, 558 A.2d 611 (Pa. Commw. Ct. 1989).

The Bureau has proffered two errors in the Board's adjudication: 1) That the Board failed to find that the citations issued by the Bureau to the Legion satisfied due process; and 2) that the "Bonanza Bingo" Game offered by the Legion to be played by its patrons did not fall under the definition of bingo as set forth in §303 of the Bingo Law. This Court will address each seriatim.

<sup>10</sup> The Bureau lodged its brief on June 18, 2015, however, the Legion did not lodge any brief.

A) Due Process/Notice

The Bureau appealed the ruling by the Board which, while finding that the Administrative Law Judge abused his discretion when he sua sponte raised a due process/notice violation regarding the citation issued by the Bureau and adjudicated the Legion not guilty as a result, failed to find that the Bureau's citation did in fact provide sufficient notice and opportunity to be heard. The Bureau appears to argue that the Board should have found that the Bureau did in fact give sufficient notice and provide due process to the Legion based upon the wording of the notice and verbiage utilized in the two counts of the citation.

In his adjudication, Administrative Law Judge Thau concluded that:

1. The Bureau has complied with the applicable notice requirements of Liquor Code Section 471 [47 P.S. §4-471], as incorporated by reference in the Local Option Small Games of Chance Act [10 P.S. §702(b)], with respect to Count No. 1;

2. The Bureau has failed to comply with the notice requirements of Liquor Code Section 471 [47 P.S. §4-471], with respect to Count No. 2;

3. The wording of Count No. 1 offends due process/notice; and

4. The wording of Count No. 2 offends due process/notice.

In making these conclusions, the Administrative Law Judge adjudicated the citation in favor of the Legion, finding that the Legion's rights were violated. These adjudications are the subject of this Appeal; however, the Board concluded that due to the Administrative Law Judge's sua sponte raising of the due process/notice issue, he was effectively violating the due process of the Bureau. In either event, this Court agrees it was an error of law for the Administrative Law Judge to raise these issues sua sponte and the Board was correct in so ruling.

"The Trial Judge is charged with the responsibility of defining all pertinent questions of law and clarifying the issues to be resolved by the Jury. This responsibility however, does not cast him in the role of an advocate." Hrivnak v. Perrone, 372 A.2d 730, 733 (Pa. 1977). Further, the Courts are not permitted to sua sponte raise issues that do not involve the Court's subject matter jurisdiction. Hertzberg v. Zoning Board of Adjustment of City of Pittsburgh, 721 A.2d 43 (Pa. 1998). "Sua Sponte consideration of an issue deprives counsel of the opportunity to brief and argue the issues and the Board the benefit of Counsel's advocacy." Orange Stones Co. v. Borough of Hamburg Zoning Hearing Board, 991 A.2d 996, 999 (Pa. Commw. Ct. 2010). Since the issues of due process and notice regarding the notice sent and citation issued to the Legion do not invoke subject matter jurisdiction, they cannot be raised sua sponte by the Administrative Law Judge.

This Court agrees with the Board that it was error for the Administrative Law Judge to rule on issues not presented to him. (See Com., Dept. of Transp. Bureau of Traffic Safety v. Searer, 413 A.2d 1157, 1158 (Pa. Commw. Ct. 1980). Since the Administrative Law Judge decided this matter primarily based upon sua sponte procedural defects in the process, the Board properly remanded this matter back for an appropriate adjudication on the merits. See Com., Somerset Mutual Retardation Unit v. Sanders, 483 A.2d 1018 (Pa. Commw. Ct. 1984).

However, this does not end our analysis of the Bureau's Appeal of the Board's decision as the Bureau also proffered that the Board erred by not finding that the notice sent to the Legion and the citation passed constitutional muster regarding due process and notice. This Court finds that since the Administrative Law Judge erred as a matter of law in sua sponte raising these issues and in light of this Court's affirming the decision of the Board regarding this issue, it is improper for this Court to address the sufficiency of the notice and citation in much the same way the Board refused to address it.<sup>11</sup>

B) Definition of Bingo

Since this matter is being remanded to the Administrative Law Judge, it now becomes proper to address the second issue subject

<sup>11</sup> While the Board did not expressly refuse to address this issue, it implicitly refused to do so by simply remanding this matter to the Administrative Law Judge without reference to the sufficiency of the notices or verbiage contained in the citation.

to this Appeal. The second issue presented by the Bureau in its Appeal focused on the Board's conclusion that the Bonanza Bingo Game offered by the Legion and played by its members did in fact fall within the definition of bingo and accordingly, to the extent that such game was played while the Legion possessed a valid bingo license, the Legion conducted these games in conformity with the Bingo Law.

The Bureau argues that the Bonanza Bingo Game is not a "traditional" bingo game and therefore, does not meet the definition of bingo as set forth in §303 of the Bingo Law and the Board erred in concluding that it does fall within the definition.

Section 303 defines bingo as: A game in which each player has a card or board containing five horizontal rows all but the central one containing five figures. The central row has four figures with the word "free" marked in the center thereof. Any preannounced combination of spaces when completed by a player constitutes bingo. In the absence of a preannouncement of a combination of spaces, any combination of five in a row whether horizontal or vertical when completed by a player constitutes bingo when its numbers are announced and covered. A wheel or other mechanical device may be used by any person conducting the game of bingo, and any such person may award a prize to any player or players first completing any combination constituting bingo.

As the record indicates, at the beginning of a day when the game is being played, twenty-four (24) "numbers" are chosen at random and placed on a master board.<sup>12</sup> This master board contains "five horizontal rows, all but the center one containing five figures." The center row has four numbers with the word "free" marked in the center. On the periphery of this master card are eighteen (18) different preannounced combinations of spaces when completed by a player would constitute bingo. This master card further explains that if a player was fortunate enough to "have" any one or more combination, they will win that corresponding monetary prize or prizes.

Any player who desires to play this game purchases a sealed card. They are then tasked with comparing the numbers on their respective game boards with the numbers on the master card. If their numbers match any of the preannounced combinations outlined on the master card: BINGO, THEY WIN!

The Bureau argues that this game is more akin to a strip ticket than a bingo game. A strip ticket is defined as part of a global definition of a "pull-tab" in 10 P.S. §228.103 as that which has "a face covered to conceal one or more numbers or symbols, where one or more of each set of tickets or cards has been designated in advance as a winner." The Court agrees that the bingo card purchased by the patron is sealed whereby the numbers are covered to conceal numbers, however, a strip ticket is distinguishable from the bingo cards in question in several respects. First, a strip ticket is part of a set of tickets or cards where a winner in that set is designated in advance as the winner, whereas the bingo cards do not always result in prizes being awarded as the games begin and end each day they are played.

Second, the winning combinations in the bingo games change each time a new day dawns and new numbers are chosen and placed on the master card. In comparison, strip tickets are played until the entire set is used up and guaranteed winners are established. Lastly, strip tickets, by their very nature, do not require a comparison of its numbers or symbols to determine whether it is a winner . . . when you see a winner, you know it. In the bingo card game, a player must "compare" his card numbers with a master card to figure out whether they match the preannounced combinations. Lastly, to suggest that a bingo card should be opened as opposed to sealed would lead to patrons "shopping" for cards with winning combinations beforehand and openly comparing the numbers with the master card before buying them simply by looking at the cards. These distinctions evidence that the Bonanza Bingo is not a pull tab or strip ticket as suggested by the Bureau, but rather fall under the definition of bingo as set forth in §303.

CONCLUSION

The Court finds that the Board was correct in affirming the conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge that the game offered by the Legion and played on Tuesdays and Sundays conform to the Bingo Law. Since this Court makes no findings different from the Board, nor does it find an abuse of discretion on the part of the
